PINEVILLE JAILER DISCOVERS ESCAPE TEN HOURS LATE

Four Prisoners Leave Jail Yesterday Morning—Not Missed Till Visitor to Bastile Sees Hinges Sawed Off

GENERAL MAY CAUGHT BEFORE MAKING ESCAPE

PINEVILLE, April 4—Four of the prisoners of the Pineville jail agreed with the report of the grand jury recently turned in at Middlesboro, that the jail was over crowded and that conditions are not what they should be so walked out at various intervals yesterday.

The four are Sam Bull, of Middlesboro, in jail on a liquor charge; Lance Woolum charged with writing a cold check; Roy White, charged with forgery; and Pearcy Johnson, negro, charged with grand larceny.

The escapes were not missed until about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and then Evan Dozier, who was at the jail on business, discovered that the top of the hinge on the big door had been sawed off, permitting the door to drop and giving ample room for the prisoners to slip through The work of filing the top off had been accomplished Monday while the miners were celebrating nearby.

Two of the prisoners got away about six o'clock, and two left about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and General May, who is charged with the murder of Charlie Wilson at the East Jellico Commissary about three weeks ago, spent the entire day sitting under stair way, waiting for the "soft delusive purple night," that he too might give more room to the other prisoners.

He was discovered sitting in the darkened passage by a visitor, also, and when he realized he was seen came forth pleading with them not to shoot him. It was doubtless very disheartening for him to be found at just that point, for he was neither in nor out of jail. All that came between him and freedom was daylight, for there were no doors nor bars, he only had to walk under the stairway and through the window, thence down the front walk, for that's the way they all went—right out the front.

The fact that two of the prisoners were gone for ten hours, and were not missed at either breakfast nor dinner, and that the other two could be gone six hours, including the dinner hour, is interesting data concerning jail conditions. Besides May, who was not missed, was only caught in his attempt to escape by accident.

When Jim Howard, jailer, was asked how many prisoners were in jail, he said that he did not know, that they were checked in and out so fast that it was difficult to keep track of them. One of his assistants said, however, that there are between thirty-five and forty in at the present time. The jail was built to accommodate about twelve.

Jim Howard offers a fifty dollar reward for the capture of Woolum, White, and Johnson, and a twenty-five dollar reward for Bull.

It is said that Bull was seen in Middlesboro yesterday morning, several hours before the jail break was discovered He was to serve between 300 and 400 days

GUESS HOW MANY BRISTLES IN BRUSH

How many bristles in a brush seems, at first thought to rank as a question with, Why is a rabbit, but the matter shows a different angle when it is added that the person who guesses most closely at the number of bristles in the fifteen-dollar shaving brush in the window of Reams Hardware Co. will be awarded the brush. To relieve the mind of the reader, we have been informed that the bristles were counted at the factory and Mr. Reams will not have this to do.

FORMAL CHARGES AGAINST ISRAELITE HOUSE OF DAVID

Allege Colony Based on Foundation of Deceit, Immorality and Fraud—Proposed Abandonment of Organization

DELUDED MEMBERS OF CULT FROM ALL OVER COUNTRY

By Associated Press

LANSING, Apr. 4.—Formal charges that the Israelite House of David colony at Benton Harbor is based on a "foundation of deceit, immorality and fraud," were filed today in circuit court here by Andrew Dougherty, Michigan attorney general. Charges were filed to compel leaders of the cult to show cause why the organization should not be abandoned. Charges allege the colony set itself up as a "kingdom" with Benjamin Purnell, head of the order, as "king." The attorney general asserts the colony "never has been a corporation for religious purposes but, on the contrary, has for its true object the enrichment of Purnell and his elevation to the rank of temporal king whose subjects shall be independent of the state's civil power". He also declares they usurped rights "by deluding members into conveying property to the corporation in return for fantastic promises of immortality and induced and permitted immoral acts under the guise of religious discipline." The colony contains a considerable number of men and women from various parts of the United States.

DENY KNOWLEDGE FORD IMPROVEMENT

Hal Mould Thinks May Be Confusion Of Peabody Purchase With Other Holdings

PINEVILLE, Apr 4.—Despite the persistent reports from the Detroit offices of Ford in regard to the immediate changes and improvement of the land recently purchased in Kentucky by Ford, Hal Mould, who is in charge of the local office, declares he knows nothing of any such plans.

He said yesterday that he believed people were bing confused by the fact that Ford had recently reopened the Nuttle Burg mine which has been closed a year. and the Derchar mine, both in West Virginia, and that fact that the Pond Creek and Banner Fork mines, in Kentucky were in operation. None of these mines were included in the Peabody holding, however.

W. R. Middleton, attorney for Ford, who is in Pineville, also declared that he knew nothing of any improvement or changes to take place under the new management. However, he said, that such changes could be contemplated very easily without his knowledge.

NEGRO TO PRISON FOR CHILDS DEATH

Ran Over With Auto and Killed Little Boy in Fork Ridge in September, 1921

TAZEWELL, Apr. 3—The case of Chill Bell, colored, charged with the murder in second degree was tried here today It was charged in the bill by the prosecutor that Chill Bell did felontously, maliciously and intentionally kill little Edward Williams son of Charley Williams of Fork Ridge, Tenn This occurred on September 20, 1921.

Witnesses testified the boy was playing along the roadside near his father's home, and that they heard an auto coming and were attracted by the unusual speed at which it was going. The car came in sight of the child at something near seventy feet, and the driver was recognized to be Chill Bell.

When the car approached, the child was standing nine feet away from the main road bed, on which cars and all other vehicles were supposed to travel, but instead of keeping to the main road the defendant left it and curved around directly in the direction of the child, leaving the road by eight or nine feet. The child when it saw the car coming toward it, started to make its escape by crossing over to the other side of the road but in this effort the car caught the little child and injured it both externally and internally in such a manner that it only lived about six hours, and died at a bospital at Middlesboro, where it was immediately taken for medical treatment.

One of the state's witnesses testified that he heard the defendant say only a short time before this occurrence that he would have to run over about a half dozen children before they would learn to stay out of his way.

The defendant testified that his reason for leaving the road was that he saw a pig lying in the road, but this testimony was disregarded as all the other witnesses testified that they had not seen a hog or pig anywhere about the road.

The jury returned a verict of 'involuntary manslaughter," the court fixed the punishment at from one to five years in the state prison.

JELLICO CHIEF IS SHOT BY BROTHER OF SLAIN RUNNERS

Everett Perkins, 15, Takes Revenge on Chief of Police Heatherly—Victim On Crutches, Assailed From Rear

RÉPORTS SAY PERKINS' MOTHER CARRIES GUN FOR OFFICERS

JELLICO, Tenn., Apr. 4.—Chief of Police George W Heatherly was shot and perhaps fatally wounded at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Everett Perkins, 15 year old brother of Walter and George Perkins, who were slain March 2, in a battle with a prohibition posse, of which Chief Heatherly was a member Chief Heatherly was shot three times, first in the right heel, then in the right breast and the third time in the right arm His boy assailant is believed to be at the home of his parents near here, but no effort has bee nmade to arrest him.

The chief was going down Main street by the aid of his crutches. Fifty yards in front of him was Everett Perkins, the 15-year old brother of the sain Perkins brothers The boy saw the chief and stepped into a restaurant until Heatherly had passed, then followed When he had shortened the distance, which at first was about 50 feet, witnesses say, the boy drew a revolver and fired at Chief Heatherly, the ball hitting Heatherly in the right heel.

In an instant Heatherly had swung around on his crutches and had drawn his own revolver. As he wheeled the Perkins boy fired again, the shot taking effect in Heatherly's righ breast about on a level with his heart. Although weakened by the shot and by his old wounds, Heatherly was able to keep his feet under him, and began firing at the youth, who dodged behind a brick building. The next bullet from the boy's pistol hit Heatherly in the right arm. The next bullet from Heatherly's gun smashed a plate glass window near the Perkins boy, who beat a retreat along a cross street towards the mountains.

It is generally understood in this vicinity that Mrs. Perkins, the mother of the two brothers who were killed and of the third boy who shot Chief Heatherly yesterday, had carried a pistol herself since the shooting March 2. She is said to have declared that she was on the lookout for the officers and would shoot them if she saw them.

Chief Heatherly had been warned of possible death if he returned to Jellico and Everett Perkins is said to have made threats against Heatherly but on account of his youth Chief Heatherly did not take the matter seriously. The first public appearance here of Chief Heatherly after his return from Knoxville was at the revival at the Baptist church, of which he is a member, conducted by Rev. F. F. Brown of Knoxville. The wounded chief has a wife and three children.

QUIN OUT OF RACE FOR GOVERNOR IS ANNOUNCED TODAY

Louisville Mayor Will Not Consider Nomination Under Any Circumstances is Understood Here —Dawson Seems Logical Candidate

ATTORNEY-GENERAL MAY KEEP SILENCE TILL CONVENTION

By Assosiated Press.

FRANKFORT, Apr. 4.—In a statement here today on the declination of Huston Quin mayor of Louisville, to be the Republican candidate for governor of Kentucy at the August primaries, attorney general Charles I. Dawson, once considered a receptive candidate for this same office, said there had been removed from the field a strong candidate but that Quin's announcement 'has not in any way affected my attitude relative to the nomination. As stated by me at Middlesboro I am not seeking the nomination as it is my preference at the end of my term as attorney general to return to the practice of law." 'However, he added, "if it should be the judgment of my party that I should head its ticket at the coming election I would feel it my duty to accept."

Mayor Houston Quin, Louisvile announced this morning that he would not, under any circumstance, be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor this fall, according to information received here today. What his reasons are for this announcement, or whether the mayor ever had any intention of announcing his candidacy, has not been stated.

More pressure every day is being brought to bear on Attorney-General Charles I. Dawson to announce his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination and messages are being sent to him from all over the state urging him to come out for the nomination. Circumstances point more and more to him as the logical standard bearer for the Republican party this year. However. Mr. Dawson is biding his time and it is very possible that he may make no formal announcement before the Republican convention, even if he should decide to seek the nomination. He has never yet indicated that he would seek this nomination

Republicans in southeastern Kentucky, especially, are delighted with the probability that their choice for the governorship, Mr Dawson, will be the selection for the nomination, if he wants it Mayor Quin had been considered his most formidable opponent.

ANOTHER JAIL DELIVERY

The jail delivery at Pineville yesterday would be a matter for righteous indignation considered in connection with the frequently recurring deliveries from Pineville and Middlesboro jails, if the whole matter were not so exaseprating as to be humorous. There is a lot of trouble and expense entailed in arresting law violators, trying them and n other prequisites to jail sentences. Why not do away with this altogether if our jails are to be places where prisoners stay as long as they choose and only as long as they choose?

The four men who escaped yesterday were well known law violators—two of them were from Middlesboro. A fifth General May, who would have escaped but for his accidental discovery, is in jail pending his trial for a brutal murder. What kind of a county government is it that permits these men to be turned loose on society unpunished and unchecked?

To those that made their escape yesterday may be added only those who have left the Pineville and Middlesboro jails in the past year, and the list makes an impressive one, including several murderers and criminals varying offenses. Small effort was made to prevent the escape and small effort was made to get the fugitives back, as most of them are still at large, unless they returned voluntarily

The Pineville jailer said he did not know how many prisoners he had, as they were brought in and checked out so fast he could not keep track! It is, of course, an established fact that the Pineville jail is badly overcrowded, but we would suggest that a trusty be appointed to keep count of the jail inmates so that the number at least might be ascertained.

IT'S BETTER JUST TO LEAVE IT UNSAID

Bad news travels faster than good news, There is an old saying, "No news is good news." Let a man be converted at a church service and there is not much of a stir, but let a resident be convicted of some crime and the news leaps by word of mouth from one end of the community to the other.

How thoughtlessly unkind we sometimes are when neighbors of ours suffer misfortune. Troubles are bound to come to us all in some shape or form and what we say about our friends and acquaintances today may apply to us tomorrow.

News is no respecter of persons.

We are prone to consider the ways of others not our ways when we should be watchin gour own step. What folks say of another sometimes hurts more than anything they could have done. News, either good or bad, grows and becomes exaggerated and distorted with peddling. When the news is good it makes no material difference how it is exaggerated or distorted—it can never do anyone positive harm. But bad news given wings, may bring sorrow and ruin upon people who certainly are not deserving of a punishment beyond penalty of their mistake

More charity for others will mean more charity for ourselves and we will gradually come to take a keener delight in reporting something good of some person than something bad. Good is constructive, bad is destructive. Just before you are about to let out a bit of bad news, stop and think a moment See if you can't think of something good to say in the place of it.

The chances are that you can and that you will.—Meades County Messenger.

THE OPEN FORUM

Editor Daily News:

Will you please print the enclosed letter, which, though doubtless of spurious origin, has yet a great deal of truth and good in it? According to its history, repeated misfortune has befallen any one who has failed to pass it on.

According to the history of the letter is was written by Christ just after his crucifixion, signed by the Angel Gabriel ninety-nine years after the Savior's birth and deposited by him under a stone at the foot of the cross.

On this one appeared the legend, "Blessed is he who shall turn me over.'

"No one knew what the inscription meant, or seemed to have sufficient curiosity to investigate until the stone was turned over by a little chlid and the letter which follows was discovered:

"Whosoever works on the Sabbath day shall be cursed. I command you to go to church and keep holy the Lord's day, without any manner of work. You shall not idle or spend your time in bedecking yourself in superfluities of costly apparel and vain dressing, for I have ordered a day of rest. I will have that day kept holy that your sins may be forgiven you.

"You will not break my commandments, but observe and keep them, they being written by my hand and spoken from my mouth. You shall not only go to church yourself, but also your man servants and your maid servants. Observe my words and learn my commandments.

"You shall finish your work every Saturday at 6 o'clock in the afternoon at which hour the preparations for the Sabbath begins. I advise you to fast five days in the year, beginning on Good Friday and continuing the five days following, in remembrance of the five bloody wounds I received for you and mankind.

"You shall love one another and cause them that are not baptised to come to the church and receive the Holy Sacrament; that is to say baptism and then the Supper of the Lord, and be made a member thereof, and in so doing I will give you long life and many blessings.

"Your land shall be replenished and bring forth abundance and I will comfort you in the greatest temptation, and surely he that doeth to the contrary shall be cursed.

"I will also send hardness of heart or them and especially on hardened and unpenitent unbelievers

"He that hath given to the poor shall find it profitable. Remember to keep the Sabbath day, for the seventh day I have taken as a rest ing day to myself.

"And he that hath a copy of this letter written by my own hand and spoken of by my own mouth and keepeth it without publishing it to others shall not prosper, but he that publisheth it to others, shall be blessed by me. and if their sins be as many as stars by night and if they truly believe, they shall be pardoned and they that believe not this writing and my commandments will have my plagues upon you and you will be consumed without your children, goods and cattle and all other worldly enjoyments that I have given you. Do but once think of what I have suffered for you; if you do, it will be well for you in this world and in the world which is to come.

"Whosoever shall have a copy of this letter and keep it in their house nothing shall hurt them neither pestilence, thunder or lightning and if any woman be in birth and put her trust in Me she shall be delivered of her child. You shall hear no more news of me except thru the Holy Scriptures until the day of judgment All goodness and prosperity shall be in the house where a copy of this letter shall be found. Finished."

LETTER FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO BETTY STOKLEY

You can imagine, dear Betty, how thrilled I was to get a cablegram I had never even seen a cablegram before, let alone receiving one, and just think, dear, it was relayed to me from New York by wireless. It was a good thing that I happened to be alone in the house when it came, as mother would certainly have made me confess all.

Your idea is splendid. The moment I received the cablegram I made arrangements to meet Karl Whitney at tea at the Country Club. His voice was full of repressed excitement when I told him I thought I had hit upon the plan.

When I first told it to him he seemed a little dubious.

"Someone," he said. "who is a connoisseur of pearls will surely see them, and the conspiracy will be all off."

But I finally talked him over and he agreed to it. I really think secretly he wanted Leslie to know and just to keep it to her self, but I know my own sex to know that a loving young bride tells he husband everything and a sensible old wife tells him nothing.

Karl had the pearls in a case in his pocket, Betty, and you never saw such gorgeous things in your life. Think of it! Sixty lustrous luxurious, lovely pearls, and not one of them cost less than two thousand dollars!

Don't you wish you had someone who loved you well enough and was rich enough to make you a present like that?

If I had been Les I don't think I ever could have resisted Karl. Personally, I think him much nicer than the man she is going to marry.

But as we have said to each other often times, one never can tell just why or when or with whom one will fall in love. The only thing one knows about it is that one is in love.

It seems strange, Betty, to be treated as a grown-up young woman by one of Les' admirers, but, of course, now that my older sister is to be married, and I am seventeen years old, it is right that I should take my place in society.

I'll tell you honestly, however, that I'll never have a grand wedding: I think they are all foolishness.

It really seems to me like making an awful bluff, when you do not yet know the value of your hand. Think how you feel if after a year or two you would want to get a divorce and the papers would all refer back to your wonderful wedding.

No, I'm determined that I shall elope when I marry. But I haven't seen anyone yet that I am in love with—at least I do not get hot and cold when some good-looking chap comes into the room I've tried to be thrilled with lots of chaps but it would not work. Guess I'm too practical to fall in love. Even when Karl Whitney took both my hands in his and looking down into my eyes said in the most impressive manner—"dear little Alice,

I didn't think it were possible that any girl of your age could be so sympathetic and understanding"—my heart didn't miss a beat.

Wouldn't it be glorious while Les is being married for me, at the very end of the bridemaids 'row, to look across at Karl Whitney, who is one of the ushers, and then let my glance rest for a moment on the glorious string of pearls on Les' neck (for I'm going to insist upon her wearing them) before sending him another look of deepest sympathy and understanding?

I and only I shall know how he is exepriencing "a feeling of sadness and longing"—because the only woman he will ever love is unknowingly wearing a gift that he has been preparing for her for years as she takes upon herself the vows of eternal fidelity to another man.

Oh, Betty, isn't it glorious? I do not think that any other girl in all the world ever had a real romance like this flung at her. You may write it, but I am a part of the living of it.

What do you mean by complication? I'm crazy to see your book. Are you really going to have this one of the things that happens to your heroine? I shall feel quite like a real author.

Don't stay abroad too long. Now that I'm really a grown-up young lady and Les is out of the way we could have an awful lot of fun if you were here.

With lots of love. A LICE.

Have a heart, lady, don't evermore flout me,
I am a fairly respectable guy;
There are a number of nice things about me
Which you can see with a tolerant eye;
I've been a butterfly, yes, and a rover,
Fickle and flippant and gay;
But, when YOU speak, I lie down and roll over,
Have a heart, lady, I pray!

Have a heart, lady, you know how I'm feeling,
Know that I'm hopelessly caught in your snare.
Though I may struggle I can't help revealing.
That I am dippy about you, for fair!
Look on me kindly at times you'll discover
I am a pretty good egg,
You could do worse in the way of a lover.
Have a heart, lady, I beg!

Have a heart, lady, and if you are shy one
(Which I am afraid, is exceedingly true)
Here is a bird who'll be glad to supply one,
Damaged a little—but mostly by you!
Which, as I guess you opine,
Beats, and will beat for you, while I am living,
Have a heart, lady—have mine!

THOUGHTS AT BEDTIME

My window-panes are black tonight,
Though silver raindrops scar the glass
With sudden strings of liquid light
That shine and run and pass.

And well I know now I rake
The embers how the woodland thins
And hosts of air ride down and shake
Their windy javelins.

And from the housetop silently,
A giant seated at his desk,
My chimney scrawls upon the sky
His smoky arabesque.

Yet I've a hope as I retire
To find at dawn those silver-crost
Black windows bright with woven wire
And stitchery of frost.

Will there be enough ARCOLAS to go round this year?

THERE weren't enough in 1921—5,000 home-owners were disappointed.

This year, with our factories already over-taxed by orders for larger Ideal Boilers, we can make only the same number of ARCOLAS as in 1921. Yet three times as many homes are being built.

So we urge you earnestly to see your Heating Contractor this week, and find out what it will cost you to have ARCOLA installed, with a genuine American Radiator in each room.

The cost is surprisingly low; and in three average winters ARCOLA pays back a large share of the cost in the fuel it saves.

Make THE Backyard Pay

First fruit of the springtime, beautiful luscious strawberries come upon our tables when the store of fresh and canned fruits is about exhausted and just when we most appreciate fresh fruit.

Strawberries should find a place in practically every home garden where a space 12 by 12 feet in size can be provided.

Strawberries can be grown on any good well-drained ground, but require plenty of fertility in the soil. The time for setting out the plants will depend upon locality and varies from early spring in the extreme north to early fall in parts of the south Several styles of planting and cultivating are used, but the matted row system is most common.

By this system the rows are spaced about three feet apart for the small garden and the plants set 18 inches apart in the rows, the planting being done rather early so there will be a free growth of new plants to form a matted row about a foot in width.

In case the plants become too thick they are thinned to stand four to six inches apart.

Water Required

During the summer the strawberry plants should be given frequent but rather shallow cultivation and the runners trained so that the newly formed plants will be evenly distributed. In case of excessive drought, or in regions where irrigation must be depended upon, water should be applied as required to keep the plants alive and growing In the late fall or earl winter a mulch of straw or pine needles should be worked in among the strawberry plants and in regions where the winters are severe this covering should be heavy enough to protect the plants especially against alternate freezing and thawing. In the spring the plants can be worked up through the covering and the mulch leftto keep the berries clean.

There are a great many varieties of strawberries, some of which are particularly adapted to growing in the home garden. By planting early, medium and late varieties, the season for ripe fruit can be greatly lengthened. During comparatively recent years there has been developed a class of fall bearing varieties. Superb and Progressive are among the leading varieties for fall bearing.

Spring and Fall

The proper method is to set the plants in the spring and keep all blossoms pinched off during the spring blooming period. The plants will then produce a fall crop and another crop the following spring after which they should be discarded.

Klondike is the most universally grown of the single crop varieties in the south. Premier, Early Jersey, Ozark, Dunlap, Marshall, Chesapeake and Gandy are among the leading single crop sorts for the north central and northern states.

Strawberry blossoms are of two kinds, the one having what are termed "perfect" blossoms which have both male and female parts of the flower. and the other called "imperfect" and having the female part of the flower only. Where the entire planting is of the imperfect sorts little or no fruit would result The varieties named above are all of the "perfect" type and can be planted alone.

A TALK WITH A MIDDLESBORO MAN

Mr. H. B. Denning of 1210 Cumberland Avenue, Tells of an Interesting Experience

There is nothing like a talk with one of our own citizens for giving hope and encouragement to the anxious sufferer from the dread kidney disease. We, therefore, give here an interview with a Middlesboro man:

"For years I have had attacks of kidney complaint when I have had to be flat on my back for days at a time," says Mr. Denning. "I had to put hot blankets across my back to relieve me of the awful pains. Sediment and bits of gravel caused the torture. Among my customers were people who had taken Doan's Kidney Pills with good results so I used them and they cured me. I wouldn't be without Doan's in my house for I certainly want them in case I have another attack."

The Railroads are the Country's Largest Buyers-

of many products, principal among which are coal, lumber, iron and steel. Here are some figures that should impress every reader of this newspaper. The railways purchase and consume one fourth of all the coal mined in the United States, one fourth of all the lumber, and from thirty to forty per cent of all the iron and steel output.

There is no single industry or business in all America that so vitally affects the immediate welfare of all classes of people, because when the actual number of railroad employes is supplemented by the workers in industries largely dependent on the carriers,—the great business of transportation becomes the backbone of our industrial life.

Keep these and other facts about railroads in mind when you read sensational newspaper and magazine articles attacking the railroads and suggesting "improvements". If readers of this newspaper are further interested in securing authentic information about the railroads and their operation, they are invited to address the Bureau of Railway Economics, Washington, D. C. If the question concerns the Louisville & Nashville Railroad in particular, address the general offices of the company at Louisville, Ky.

Who'll Get George Gould's $50,000,000? Children of Two Wives Facing Tangle

By Josephine Van de Grift

NEW YORK, April 3—What is to become of the $50,000,000 fortune of George Jay Gould if Gould dies? He is now dangerously ill at his villa in France.

Will the capitalist's last bequests show that he has taken the obviously easy course of dividing his fortune equally among the seven children of himself and his first wife, Edith Kingdon Gould, or will there be complications?

Complications, probably, for matters between George Jay Gould and his children have not always been harmonious.

When Marjorie, eldest daughter of the Goulds, made her debut in 1909, society was overwhelmed at the display Covers for 250 guests were said to have cost $100 each while the decorations tallied up the neat little sum of $7500. Expensive favors ran the affair up to several thousand dollars more.

Marriages Disrpt Family

The year following Majorie was married to Anthony J. Drexel and within a 12-month two more marriages had thinned the ranks. Vivian the second daughter was married to Major John Graham Hope Horsely Bresford, fifth Baron Decies, and became Lady Decies while Jay Gould married Anne Douglas Graham, in whose veins flowed the blood of the Hawaiian Princess Kailkailani.

With all of these the family was obviously pleased. But when, in 1917, Kingdon Gould announced his engagement to Miss Annunziata Camilla Maria Lucci, an Italian artist who had been a governess in the Gould household, the family was, to say the least, surprised, and when five days later, George Jay Gould, Jr., made known that he had married Miss Laura Carter, George Gould, Sr., promptly disinherited him.

His pleasure was no less manifest when in 1920, his third daughter, Edith, eloped with Carol Wainwright. She was 18, young Wainwright was 21 The young couple had no place to turn until Stuyvesant Wainwright, father of the bridegroom and descendant of Peter Steyvesant, provided them with an apartment. The Gould family promptly sent Edith's trunks after her.

This leaves only the youngest child, Gloria, now 17, in the home nest.

She in many ways is the most precocious of the Gould family. At 10 she wrote and directed a play called "The Lost Child" as a benefit for the Red Cross. The Drexel children were members of the cast. Youthful Gloria recited poems written by herself in French, German, Italian and English.

Like other members of her family she has perfected herself in outdoor sports and she has lately been an industrious student of domestic science.

Father Marries Again

But the elder Gould further alienated himself from his family when last May he secretly married Mrs. Vera Sinclair, six months after the death of his first wife, Edith Kingdon Gould. The feelings manifested by the children are supposed to have been responsible for Gould's determination to spend the rest of his life in Europe.

The present Mrs. Gould is the mother of three children, who may also share in the Gould fortune if Gould dies.

It is a fortune that has grown tremendously. When Jay Gould, founder of it, died in 1893, he left $74,500,000 to be divided equally between his six children, George, Helen, Edwin, Anna, Howard and Frank. This gave each of the six something in excess of $12,000,000.

To George was given an additional gift of $5,000,000 for business services he had rendered his father.

The entire Gould estate is now estimated to be worth $150,000,000, while George Gould is supposed to have increased his original holdings of $17,000,000 to something in excess of $50,000,000

In 1919 he was removed as one of the trustees of the Gould estate, following action started by his sister, Anna, Princess de Sagan, protesting against the methods he was using in administering the affairs.

"Better Stick To The Standard"

Experimenting with off-grade or unknown motor oils is a dangerous and expensive pastime. There are undoubtedly other good oils on the market to-day, but the experience of this Company has been so large and covers so many years, that it has produced a motor lubricant of the highest quality—to retail at the lowest price commensurate with its value.

Pay more attention to your motor. Find out from our chart of recommendations just what grade and weight of oil your motor requires and, once you have determined this fact, remember that for efficiency and long-run economy you had "Better Stick to the Standard" and put nothing in your crank case but

Why You Should Have Check Insurance

Last year it cost the American check-writing public $50,000,000.00 through check frauds or twenty times the amount of bank burglary and holdups.

When your check leaves your hands, who handles it.

Sometimes you know—more often you don't. To protect you, as a depositor of this bank, we are providing you greater protection—Super-Safety Insured Bank Checks—"the world's safest bank checks." Each depositor is furnished free $1,000 insurance in the Hartford Accident & Indemnity Company against loss through fraudulent and felonious alteration. These checks are also protected by The William J. Burns International Detective Agency, Inc.

This is the latest development in check protection, and its adoption by this bank is another indication of the care taken by the officers in safe guarding the money of their depositors.

Insurance beats all the ingenuity ever devised for protecting checks. A crook would be very foolish indeed to tackle these checks to defraud when there are so many checks in transit Not Insured and Not Protected.

Come in and get this positive protection.
